

Setup

Thankfully, Skype has a fairly easy setup. You will need; a Skype account, have downloaded Skype, a webcam (for video calls), and headphones/microphone (also for video/voice calls).

1. To begin the Skype setup, head on over to www.skype.com and download Skype. This is easy, as you will be given several on-screen commands to guide you through.
2. After you have installed Skype, create an account. You can do this on Skype's website, or from your downloaded copy. This step should be very easy if you've ever made an account for anything online. Just make sure you use a valid email address, and create a Skype username and password that you will use to login. If you forget your password, you will be able to reset it later.
